- “A speaker from ‘Ask’ came in to speak to us about apprenticeships. Evelyn explained that apprenticeships are just as effective as university courses and you can get the same qualifications, without the University fees and training in your field of interest. She gave a realistic review on apprenticeships explaining the hard work that being in an apprenticeship consists of. She showed us an informative video of someone who did an apprenticeship showing that there are other choices. We were also shown a variety of different companies which offer apprenticeships”

Reviews from Progression Week

Applying for Accounting Workshop

A student's review of the accounting apprenticeship workshop

On Thursday 23rd June, former Enfield County student Maisy Partridge came in to speak about her apprenticeship at Ernest and Young accountancy firm. I initially attended the workshop as I was interested in a future in accountancy.

However, the workshop helped me to understand that there is a more suitable path to achieving the future I want rather than following the University path. With the stigma around apprenticeships being the 'last resort' for people, including myself, Maisy's accountancy workshop presented us with an opportunity at EY and discussed how apprenticeships are a valuable route of further education and shared her day-to-day life as an accountant in EY. This gave us a more honest and personal insight into an apprenticeship in accountancy at a big firm and showed us how much you could achieve. Maisy was inspirational and gave me hope for the future.

Cooking on a budget

Students attempted to make 'Mac and Cheese' with a white sauce. Their cooking skills were put to the test and it was found that some were quite questionable. Although, the experience was perceived as quite enjoyable and beneficial to many as they appreciated the new skill set they received from the workshop.
